To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing in reference to Mr. Troy Evans. Mr. Evans spoke to our group of approximately 200 students and staff on April 20, 2004 at our annual Career Development Conference in Akron, Ohio.

Mr. Evans immediately grabbed the attention of our audience and kept it for the duration of the event. It was clear that he made an impression on not only the students, but the staff as well. At the end of the day's events, which included Mr. Evans' speech as well as competitions, seminars, and lunch, an evaluation was given to everyone in attendance. When we received the evaluations back, about 90 percent of audience responded that Mr. Evans was their favorite part of the day.

I would also like to commend Mr. Evans and the Evans Group on their professionalism. He and the company were wonderful to work with. I was kept informed of everything that he needed for the event on a regular basis. Everyone involved was very personable and friendly. I would recommend Mr. Evans to anyone who is looking for a message of inspiration, particularly those working with "at-risk" youth.

Sincerely,

Tracy Kuntz
